

Mark West Coho Celebration

Saturday, November 12, 2011

3pm to 5pm

Photo by Greg Damron

Please join us for a celebration of the recent release of coho salmon and the recent sightings of wild coho salmon in the Mark West Watershed!

The event will be held at the Dwight Center for Conservation Science at Pepperwood Preserve located at 3450 Franz Valley Road from 3:00pm to 5:00pm.

Short presentations will be given on:

- The Cresta and McCullough Open Space acquisition and what's ahead
- Salmonid life-cycle, identification and historical context of salmonids in the watershed
- The Russian River Coho Salmon Captive Brood Stock Program's recent coho release
- Current restoration and planning efforts in the Mark West Watershed

We are also offering an opportunity to attend a Pre-Event Project Site Tour

Join us from 1:30pm to 2:45pm at 3035 Porter Creek Road in Santa Rosa (2.5 miles from Pepperwood Preserve) for a tour of a riparian plant revegetation project at Cresta Ranch.

See the progress of the project and hear about the approach to science-based riparian habitat enhancement efforts.

For information about the project and driving directions go to www.markwestwatershed.org

For event information contact Greg Damron (707) 318-5863 gdamron@pepperwoodpreserve.org

SOTOYOME

